- Follow-up with the public view regarding the snow and ice outside of the campus view apartments: I reached out to Bill Rockwell and he told me that the housing partner who takes care of Campus view was scrambling to find salt and our facilities were also running low on salt. Even though the weather was predicted, we had received much more ice than was expected. He was having a meeting with Mr. Hatcher, who I'm assuming is the person in charge of taking care of the Campus View Apartments, to discuss how to be better prepared for any future weather events such as the crazy snow and ice storm we had in February.
- I attended the Accessibility Advisory Committee meeting the week before Christmas break and during the meeting they just wanted to have me address the importance of completing the surveys that get sent out to our emails. These surveys can be used for data purposes but mostly they are to help better the experience for all students here at Shawnee. They usually don't take very long at all, but they are super helpful for our faculty and advisors to know when discussing how to better our experiences as students and residents at Shawnee State.
