Introduction to Onboarding

Welcome to Shawnee State University! You are already a valued member of our campus community. It is important to us that your transition to our workplace be as smooth as possible and that we provide you with as much support and information as we can during your “new-hire” and early employment days. That is the purpose of this onboarding program. Thank you for actively engaging in this process. We can only do this together.

What is onboarding?

Onboarding, is an orderly method that Shawnee State University has implemented to help you navigate all of the “new employee” and early employment processes needed to become familiar and comfortable with the University’s organization and culture.

Why is an onboarding program important?

We understand how overwhelming starting a new job, learning new systems and technologies, and becoming acquainted with policies and procedures can be for a new employee. Having a systematic approach that gives you guidance on these issues, while you are meeting new people and making other life changes, will reduce the time it takes for you to make a smooth transition to the University. An effective onboarding program increases the likelihood that you will be able to participate more actively and feel engaged in this new environment.

What are the key stages in our onboarding program?

Our desire is to create positive experiences at each stage to help you understand how to do your job while forging meaningful connections with coworkers, colleagues and the broader University community. Each stage consists of orientation, training and performance related tasks. The stages of our onboarding program for you, HR and the hiring manager are:

1. Pre-boarding
2. 1st day tasks
3. Within the 1st week tasks
4. Within the first 30 day tasks
5. After 30 day tasks
