- 4.1 President Bauer
 - Provides with hope and optimism: Last semester was like “let’s get this done as quickly as we can to try to avoid getting covid” and we did remarkably well. Thanksgiving break positives were getting more difficult and made commencement virtual again.
 - This semester is already different than last semester, starting off a little rough due to positives during move-ins. Hopefully it will get better as we continue through the semester and anticipating positive cases going down. Mid-semester the vaccine should be allowed for all of us to be vaccinated. The end of covid is in sight!
 - Spring break: is still intended as planned on the Academic Calendar, and are planning on having commencement in person, but times may change.
 - Cares Funding: there is a second round of stimulus passed in December and he is finding out what he can use it for.
 - What goes into determining whether a class will be carried out online or in-person? Provided faculty with the option, know some faculty do have conditions that concern them about being in person. Didn’t want to be in a position to force a faculty member to have class in-person and they end up getting sick. This semester there are more in person classes that were offered.
 - Spring Break: when would the spring break plans be finalized? He’s pretty certain at this point, the only thing that would lead to it being cancelled would be a greater number of transmissions taking place.
 - When the vaccination is available to more people, will the clinic offer it? Have received authorization to administer the vaccine through the health clinic.
 - Trying a Drive-thru vaccination on Friday by ATC and cars will register there and drive behind health science building and pull into parking lot and sit there for a couple minutes to make sure you are still safe and then you’ll be on your way. Vaccine is not mandatory and can’t be made mandatory while it’s for emergency reasons.
